

PERFORMANCE BICYCLE OPENS FIRST PITTSBURGH STORE WITH 'BIKE TUBE BLOW-OUT

Performance opens first store in Pittsburgh market; bike tube recycling drive seeks to save tons of rubber from local landfills

Chapel Hill – June 8, 2010 — Performance Bicycle, the country's largest specialty bike shop, is set to open its first store in Indianapolis with a bike tube recycling drive to make the city a little greener.

Next weekend, from June 18 to June 20, Performance (www.performancebike.com) will celebrate the grand opening of its new location in Pittsburgh with the Bike Tube Blow-Out, a recycling program sponsored by Performance and Liberty Tire, the largest scrap tire recycler in the country. During the weekend, anyone can bring their used or blown-out inner tubes to the store and receive up to three $5 money cards for each tube they recycle. The new Performance Bicycle is located at 6375 Pennsylvania Avenue in the Village of Eastside.

"We're excited to launch our first store in Pittsburgh, which is making strides in becoming more bicycle friendly," said Jim Thompson, chief executive officer of Performance, Inc. "And that's why we are working hard to make Performance Bicycle the premier retail destination for avid cyclists, aspiring riders, and everyone who loves bikes as much as we do. If we can deliver a fun and friendly environment in the store, we can help more families and individuals embrace the benefits and fun of cycling in communities everywhere."

Performance designed its new Pittsburgh store to appeal to everyone from dedicated road bike racers to the casual or beginning rider. The store's Spin Doctor™ service department serves as a helpful guide for anyone interested in getting the most out of their bike—or getting back on one.

"Our goal at Performance is to demystify cycling," added Thompson. "The new Pittsburgh store is designed to make cycling retail fun and easy to understand. We hope that more people are discovering or rediscovering the thrill of riding a bike."

Thompson added that Performance makes it easy to:
